Test – 11

Read the following poem and do the activities that follow.

Soldier Daddy

To you I may be very small	I watch my mom and see her cry
Or think I don't know much at all	I already know but still ask why?
I've learned to grow up rather fast	Her heart is hurting yet she tries to smile with so much future and no much past.	And we hold each other for a little while.

I'm just two years old but often sad	I'm still young yet very wise
I want so much to hug my dad	I have my fan but realize
He's protecting us from far away	My soldier daddy is brave and strong
His life on the line everyday	I pray his deployment won't be long.

(Gina M. Makonsky)

Test – 15

Read the following passage and answer the questions.

Rabies is an ordinarily infectious disease of the central nervous system, caused by a virus and, as a rule, spread chiefly by domestic dogs. Man and all warm – blooded animals are susceptible to rabies. The people of ancient Egypt, Greece and Rome thought rabies to be the work of evil spirits because ordinarily gentle and friendly animals suddenly became violent without evident cause and, after a period of wild behaviour, became paralyzed and died.

Experiments carried out in Europe in the early nineteenth century proved that the disease was infectious. Preventive steps, such as the destruction of stray dogs, were taken and by 1826 the disease was permanently eliminated in Norway, Sweden and Denmark, although urban centres on the continent of Europe were cleared several times during the nineteenth century, they soon became reinfected since rabies was uncontrolled among wild animals.

During the early stages of the disease, a rabid animal is most dangerous because it appears normal and friendly, but it will bite at the slightest provocation. The virus is present in the salivary glands and passes into the saliva so that the bite of the infected animal introduces the virus into a fresh wound. If no action is taken, the virus may become established in the central nervous system and finally attack the brain. The incubation period varies from ten days to eight months or more and the disease developed more quickly the nearer to the brain the wound is. Most infected dogs become restless, nervous and irritable and vicious, then depressed and paralyzed. With this type of rabies, the dog’s death is inevitable and usually occurs within three to five days after the onset of the symptoms.

1. What is the disease mentioned in the passage?
